What is the course about?

This short 6-week course is aimed as a follow-on skills course for those who have completed the "Introduction to Bricklaying" course or those with basic ability wanting to further develop their trowel skills.

Why should I choose the course?

This short course further develops a range of hand-skills and practical tasks in bricklaying that builds on your basic pre-existing abilities. You will learn how to construct a low level wall.

What will I learn?

Over the 6 weeks you will develop the skills and knowledge needed to:

- Refresh your bricklaying skills.
- Improve accuracy and consistency.
- Measure out and mark up for accurate bricklaying.
- Lay a stretcher bond wall with consistent joint formation.
- Apply techniques for ensuring clean and square corners. (This builds on your skills of being able to build a low level wall).
- Identify and correct common bricklaying errors.

What will the course lead on to?

On completion of the course, you could consider studying further on our "Constructing Low level Walls Using Light Weight Blocks." You may also wish to progress to full certified qualifications in the trade area.

Are there any links with industry and university?

The course is aligned to bricklaying practices and can be the first step towards a career in the construction industry if students wish.
