What is the course about?

The NCFE CACHE Level 2 Certificate in Understanding Specific Learning Difficulties is designed to provide you with a comprehensive understanding of Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD)/Attention Deficit Disorder (ADD), Dyslexia, Developmental Coordination Disorder and Dyscalculia.

The course will cover the diagnosis and how to support individuals with these learning difficulties in various environments. It is suitable for anyone working or looking to work with individuals with specific learning difficulties in education, health and social care.

Why should I choose the course?

Choosing this course will help you develop a deep understanding of specific learning difficulties, which is increasingly relevant in education.

It is ideal for those already working or volunteering in school, to develop their underpinning knowledge, but also for those looking to move into roles that work directly with children and young people in the learning environment such as teaching staff, teaching assistants, welfare support, breakfast/after-school club assistants, SEND and 1-1 support. It is also suitable for anyone looking to build their knowledge of dyslexia and other learning difficulties to make a real difference in their lives.

It provides an opportunity to improve career prospects, increase employability, and enhance personal knowledge and skills.

What will I learn?

The course is made up of five units:

- ? Understand specific learning difficulties
- ? Understand the effects of specific learning difficulties
- ? Understand the diagnosis of specific learning difficulties
- ? Understanding supporting individuals with specific learning difficulties
- ? Understand the context of specific learning difficulties

The course is delivered online through Google Classroom by a subject specialist tutor.

The qualification is internally assessed using a range of methods including written assignments or tasks.
