What is the course about?

This qualification is designed to give learners the knowledge, skills and competencies to provide clinical supervision for counselling practitioners. It is aimed at counsellors who have acquired sufficient client work experience to contemplate the move into a clinical supervision role.

Participants will need to:

- Have both supervisees and supervisory supervision.
- Be working as counsellors under supervision.

This qualification is designed to lead to a role as a clinical counselling supervisor in a counselling agency or in independent practice. Supervision is an ongoing professional requirement for all practising counsellors and those with a recognised qualification are more likely to find employment.

Why should I choose the course?

The course delivery is online and will be 3hr taught lessons for 21 weeks with additional independent learning of 27 hours in total. The course has been designed to support working counsellors in gaining this qualification. The Counselling team are experienced counsellors and supervisors and can offer experience from own professional practice.

We will be utilising a significant amount of creative resources to complete various experiential tasks. Students will have access to the college library resources and online journals to explore the latest research on supervision practices.

What will I learn?

The course involves experiential elements and learning that will involve some personal disclosure and associated personal development activities. The course incorporates a minimum of 60 hours formally contracted counselling (one-to-one), with at least five different clients in an agency setting. The course will cover the following units:

- Model and supervise the professional framework
- Model and supervise the skilled use of the relationship
- Model and supervise the use of theory and research on diversity
- Model and supervise a user-centred approach to the work
- Model and supervise the skilled use of the self
- Model and supervise the coherent use of theory, research and skills
- Model and supervise the self-reflective practitioner
